

Dr. Bryndis Bjork Asgeirsdottir is an Associate Professor and the Chair of Department of Psychology at Reykjavik University, Iceland. Dr. Asgeirsdottir obtained her Ph.D. from the Institute of Psychiatry, King's College London. Since 1999 she has collaborated with her colleagues at the Icelandic Centre for Social Research and Analysis (ICSRA) in creating a knowledge-base on modifiable social predictors of youth substance. Dr. Asgeirsdottir has published numerous scientific articles in international journals focusing on protective factors in the lives of adolescents when facing stressful life events and on pathways from stressful life events to mental health problems and risk behavior, including suicidal and self-injurious behavior, substance use, and delinquency.