

The four pillars of a healthy mind: Science and practice

Richard J. Davidson

This workshop will feature both a scientific and experiential exploration of each of the four pillars of well-being. Participants will be exposed to the most relevant science for each of the pillars and will be led through short experiential practices to nurture each of these four pillars.